VA #1 California Indians at Mount Shasta

A long time ago, American Indians were the only people living by Mount Shasta. They got most of their food, such as berries and nuts, from plants. They used wood and bark to make their homes.

VA #2 Logging at Mount Shasta

Some people started logging around Mount Shasta. They cut down the trees. The logs were used for buildings, bridges, and furniture.

VA #3 Mining Near Mount Shasta

Other people came looking for gold.
They started mining around Mount Shasta.

VA #4 Farming Near Mount Shasta

Some people started farming. They had to cut down trees to make room for crops and cattle.

VA #5 California Indians Near Oceanside

A long time ago, California Indians were the only people living in the place we call Oceanside. They mashed acorns to make flour. They also ate seeds, berries, and green leaves from some plants. They used stones, shells, bones, and wood for making things.

VA #6 Farming and Ranching Near Oceanside

Other people came and started farming the land.
Many of the farmers raised cattle.

VA #7 Enjoying the Beach Near Oceanside

Some farmers came to the ocean for vacations. They liked the water and the cool air. People used wood to make a very long pier.

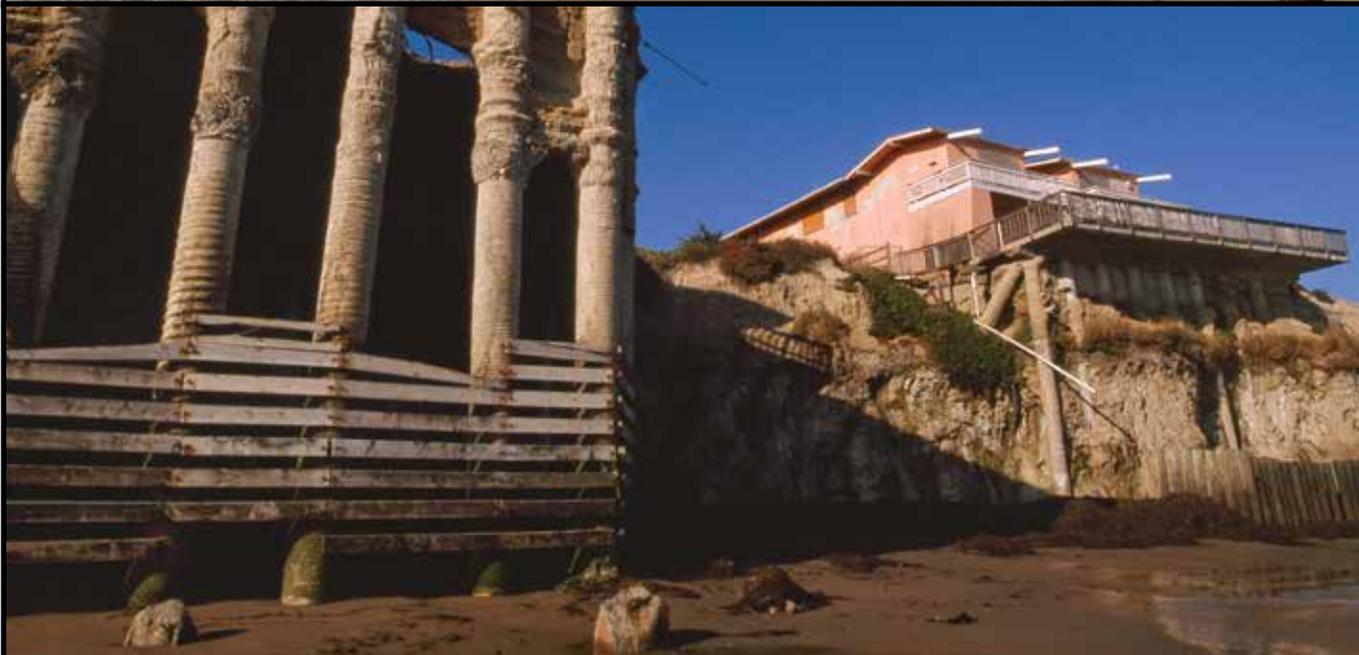

VA #8 San Luis Rey Mission Near Oceanside

Some people used clay, stone, and sand to make beautiful buildings.

VA #9 Winter Storm

VA #10 Houses Along the Coast

VA #11 Growing Corn

VA #12 Snowmelt from Mount Shasta

VA #13 Collage of Human Activities 1

A forest like this has wood that people need.

When people take some of the trees, the forest is different.

When people take a lot of trees, the forest is changed forever.

VA #14 Collage of Human Activities 2

This land has good soil and plenty of water to grow plants.

People drain the river and start a farm on the land.

The farm gets bigger and the land is changed forever.
